Corporate Profile

Audiovox Corporation is a publicly traded company (Nasdaq: VOXX) located in Hauppauge, New York. The company was founded in 1965 as a car radio supplier and went public in 1987 as a major cellular telephone and mobile electronics marketer. Diversification has grown us from a car stereo company to a premier brand in mobile electronics as well as a formidable marketer of consumer electronics and most recently a player in consumer electronic accessories.

Among the highly recognized and powerful domestic brands now owned by Audiovox are: Acoustic Research, Advent, Code Alarm, Discwasher, Jensen, Prestige, RCA, Roadgear, Spikemaster and Terk. Our International brands include Heco, Incaar, Oehlbach, Mac Audio and Magnate, among others. In addition the company licenses the Energizer brand.

In Mobile Electronics we cover rear seat entertainment products, mobile multi media, vehicle security and remote start, satellite radio, vehicle tracking and a line of safety and convenience products.

On the consumer side, the company supplies products in some of the most exciting and growing high tech categories as well as some more mature markets. You will find Audiovox branded consumer electronics products like portable DVD players, under cabinet TV systems and digital picture frames in all of the major regional & power retailers as well as the mass merchant channel. In addition the company markets camcorders, MP3 players, clock radios and digital voice recorders under the powerful RCA Brand.

In the accessory marketplace, the Company has an impressive portfolio of products including antennas, connectivity products, headphones, speakers, wireless solutions, remote controls, power & surge protectors, media cleaning and storage devices, satellite accessories and more.

With its strong brand recognition, impressive blue-chip customer base and distribution capabilities, Audiovox is poised to expand its market presence and remains committed to seeking new marketing opportunities in every category.
